

Alonso Mayordomo Castilla

Alonso is a senior associate at Stampa Abogados, an arbitration law firm based in Madrid, where he is focused on construction, oil and gas, energy, and engineering matters, in addition to international trade and sales of goods controversies. He is an FCI Arb and represents clients before arbitral institutions, and ad hoc procedures.

Alonso has worked in Spain, Indonesia and Malaysia. In his previous role in Kuala Lumpur, he administered more than 120 ADR disputes per year and assisted in the development and implementation of statutory amendments to the arbitration act and adjudication rules. He also co-founded and co-chaired the AIAC Young Practitioners' Group, along with Tatiana Polevshchikova. The AIAC YPG is a Malaysian based arbitration platform for under forty practitioners and students. Under their guidance, the group managed to register over 1,000 members. Moreover, he also worked for an ODR Hong Kong based institution, managing its business development and the administration of disputes.

Besides, Alonso assists an educational institution such as IE Law School in its mentoring program. He further coordinates the publications of a group of arbitration law firms and has carried out several studies to compare institutional rules and their developments.
