

Jose Antonio Casas Chavana

Mr. José Antonio Casas (“Toño Casas”) is a senior associate at Galicia Abogados, in Mexico City. His practice focuses in International Dispute Resolution. Toño has significant experience representing international and domestic clients in international commercial litigations and arbitrations. He has represented clients in commercial, construction and energy disputes before diverse international arbitration institutions, such as the ICDR, ICC and LCIA. He has been appointed as secretary to arbitral tribunals in the past. Toño frequently speaks on panels, particularly in topics relating to international arbitration and energy and organizes academic discussions and panels. He holds a degree in law in Mexico, and has studied two specializations at Universidad Panamericana, in Mexico City. His specializations focus in commercial and constitutional law and procedures. He studied the LLM on International Dispute Resolution at Queen Mary University in London, where he is an alumnus of the Centre for Commercial Law Studies. He has worked as an associate in Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz, in New York City.